To ALL:

Head to Zoom.com (our online "meeting" platform) and quickly set-up a free account with them. I have disabled your video on my end so don't feel like we can see you. Once you input your email with them, then enroll in the class and shoot me that email, I will send you the link.

Please know that these live-streaming classes are our way to accommodate the needs of all who choose to stay home right now under the current public health circumstances. As your studio owner, I take public health crises very seriously and I also believe the practice of Yoga is essential as a tool for positive health and well-being. This is why we are allowing up to 8 students max into the studio, diligently cleaning/disinfecting before and after each class, and accommodating online-streaming of classes.

If I don't receive an email after you enroll in class then I will save your spot in the studio. If you do not show up, it will be open to someone else, AND, if you choose last-minute to stay home but would like to attend the live-streaming version, text me: 802-323-9555.

If you have any uncertainties about heading out of your home for any reason yet you intend to practice at the studio, when you sign-up please also email me with subject heading, "Unsure, Access Link Please".

This is all new to me folks, so let's try to work together to make it all work.

Peacefully,

Pippa Dorfman
